Directions for Planting and Cultivating the Strawberry.

We prefer planting in the speing as early as the ground will permit but pudgrawn plants set in August or September will produce a good crop the next season. For garden culture, the most convenient method is to plant in beds four feet with, three rows in each bed, and plants one foot spart in the row. Thoroughly enrich the soil, dig deep, keep clean of weeds, over lightly in what yellow, keep clean of weeds, over lightly in what will cent stake or some coarse litter, take off in the paring, dress the beds and much with the same latter or a out grass from the laws.

That a new bed every year, spade, under after the accord croy, and so thear plenty of berries, and evade unsignity beds. NEW VARIETIES OF STRAWBERRIES
